Working at

Attracting new business and industry to this area should be a full-time job.

The area has done well the past year in attracting several new, albeit small, industries to the community in spite of the country's economic problems.

However, we can not take it easy and pat ourselves on the backs for our accomplishments during the past year.

There are too many communities out hunting, some with high-power weapons, for those industries expanding or relocating.

This area has some disadvantages which must be worked on to correct and some advantages to be exploited before it can consider itself an "automatic" location for industry.

So, let's keep working on the job of attracting industry. And let's not forget those already located here.

Saying goodbye

It is with mixed emotions that we must say goodbye to our readers of the Weekend Mirror, especially those who have been with us from the start.

With this issue, the Mirror is suspending publication.

All mail subscribers who have paid for their subscriptions will receive rebates appropriate to the unused portions.

We thank all our advertisers and we thank the growing number of readers.

During our stay we tried to present the best written newspaper possible — to best represent this area.

We tried to present the best organized newspaper possible — to best represent this area.

We tried to present the best features and hard news stories possible — to best represent this area.

We tried to present the best taken and best reproduced photographs possible — to best represent this area.

And we sincerely thank all those people who sacrified much to help us produce this newspaper.

Thank you.
